Earth girls might be popular...but they're definitely not easy.

Kidnapped by sexy alien warriors, Cat and the women of the Sentinel Five base are looking for a way home. Their captors might be ripped, hot alphas looking for that one special woman, but these girls have this little thing against being slaves. Even if their leader is well on his way to stealing Cat's heart as well as her body...

Then a new player enters the arena. A dangerous rival war-commander has challenged the K'Vass claim on terran held space and all it's women. Tarrick K'Vass can't afford to let any of the earth women be captured, especially not his little human, Cat.

When his human is taken, he'll do anything to rescue her... Anything. Up to and including starting an intergalactic war.

Tarrick, Alien Lord saves his sassy woman Cat and made me like him even more... Swoon!

By Smokenator

I had to laugh in the first chapter... The Latharians has just learned that the human women is absolutely nothing they thought the earth women would be. Stubborn, and much like the Warriors as well. A unheard of hunger strike? What I do like of these warriors is the fact that as soon as they heard about this they were concerned of these woman... Yes my heart melted....

I love Cat!! This is the day after the alien invasion or Tarrick invasion of her life. Tarrick her alien hunk fantasy come true, only she didn't like the that he thought he could be her 'master'. Cat has given in to her desire for Tarrick... Hot Alien Hunk in leather... Who wouldn't.

But we find her listening to the Warriors trying to figure out the Earth station's wiped data. All the while she is gathering information. She was no victim she was a survivor. On asking Cat to help them... She flipped them the bird... Making it clear that she refuses to help them. She is still mad because the women were held hostage.

As human Cat doesn't understand the logic of the Latharian race, they see the earth women as just a treasure to be claimed, no harm should come over them but they also thought that these women had no intelligence, couldn't to any 'warrior' tasks. Did they get a quick education..

What I like was that amidst all this Mina Carter made Cat feel like a fairytale princess in the Latharian dresswear that is long and 'bunches around her ankles' making her want to twirl around.

Well as much as we 'dislike' the Latharians...T'Laat's are worse. They don't ask they they take. They lie, they force and think nothing of shooting women... And we thought Tarrick and his Warriors were messed up!! These aliens wanted these women, and they were not taking no for an answer....

Tarrick's ship was infiltrated with the aim of grabbing the women!! The T'Laat's found out that these women are so not what they thought, and this is how Tarrick found these military trained women, holding their own against the enemy. Respect earned in this new found knowledge the Latharians free their women.

Lots of action and yes some hotness. The point is, as in reality Mina points out that as much as there are bad out there, you can face even worse. In this adventure we found that Cat Moore was a survivor and was not defeated even in their situation. And liked it as much, she was attracted to her Alien Lord. There are also very interesting things happening ...do all that, you are going to have to read this book! Now Mina Carter, who will be next and HOW SOON!

Loving this series!

By Amber Hall

I had never been a big fan of reading the sci-fi genre but Mina Carter is definitely changing my mind on that. I am really loving this series. This one was full of action and heat!

I love Cat's feistiness and Tarrick's possessiveness. They make for one explosive couple. I also really enjoyed meeting some of the other females. I can't wait to get their stories. I know they'll be just as much fun and make life difficult for the men they end up with!

Great story, great continuation from Captured by the Alien Lord.

By DR

I loved this story. It is a continuation from Captured by the Alien Lord. That one was a romantic version of a space opera, this one turns it on its head. OMG, the Lathar are surprised at Earth women.

So, the setup -- in the earlier book, a few ships from an alien warrior race capture the military spacestation where our heroine lives and works. Even though the humans put up a good resistance, the alien technology is too much and they capture everyone. They want the woman for sex and breeding, because they don't have female offspring. Dang them for also being really hot, buff and all alpha, too. The leader of the warrior group had her our heroine's voice in communication transmissions, and wanted her sight-unseen. When he sees her, he is immediately attracted. He blackmails her with promises of the other women's safety, and they have sexy times that even she things is wonderful, because he is hot, hot, hot, and really good in bed. She never forgets her first allegiance to her own people, though.

Okay, start of this story, some less-nice war ships of his race come and attack to get the women they have captured. They have more ships and robots than the first captors, and manage to take the women to their ship. In his arrogance, the new leader decides to take our heroine--mostly because she belongs (in his mind) to the hero.

Our human women really surprise everyone and are a big part of rescuing themselves, but, as you can tell from the title, our heroic alien lord rescues our heroine and the other women. These women are all kick-azz warriors and can strategize, fight, and realize the first group was much better than the second group.

Cat renegotiates with the alien lord for the women's happiness, as well as their safety.

I loved this story, I loved the twist of how the aliens now see humans, and especially human women, as strong warriors, too.

The final twist I won't tell you.
